A local construction firm has a new CEO.

Mike Coyne joined Grand Rapids-based Bazzani Building Company, according to the firm this week.

Former CEO Guy Bazzani will remain on the board, allowing him to step toward retirement, while still playing a role in the firm's direction.

"I am pleased that Guy will continue to work with us as a member of the board," Coyne said. "His guidance will be of great value to our team."

Coyne said he and the firm share a commitment to the triple bottom line philosophy: people, planet and profit.

"I was immediately impressed that the people at Bazzani Building Company recognize the interplay between the economic, social and environmental facets of design and construction in urban settings," Coyne said.

Coyne has over 30 years of leadership experience in transportation, health care services, logistics and mergers and acquisitions.

He has spent 15 years in officer and C-suite roles managing multiple locations through the U.S. and Canada. He has also been involved with M&A from both sides, with deals ranging from $2 million to $750 million.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Xavier University and an M.B.A. from Loyola University in Chicago.

Bazzani Building Company is a Certified B Corporation, having met the key criteria of social and environmental performance, accountability and transparency.

The firm has several projects in the pipeline, with the primary target of designing and building "high-performance" buildings.
